Introduction

Walking alongside our grandchildren as women of faith requires intentionality and courage. In today's fast-paced, godless culture, where values often contradict biblical truth, we are called to be foundational pillars in the spiritual formation of the next generation.

Women have uniquely significant roles—as mothers, grandmothers, mentors, and prayer warriors—to influence and equip our grandchildren with the eternal truths found in Scripture. This study invites you to explore the lives and legacies of godly women in the Bible who trusted God's plan amid challenging circumstances and raised their children and descendants in faith.

Each day, we will reflect on Scriptures that highlight the strength, wisdom, and faithfulness of women who trusted God's sovereignty while actively nurturing the faith of those entrusted to them. You'll find encouragement, practical applications, and prayers designed to empower you to pass on a heritage of truth, grace, and love to your grandchildren—even as cultural pressures try to pull them away.

Let this seven-day journey deepen your commitment to equip your grandchildren with the Word, empower them through prayer, and exemplify a faith that endures. Remember, while we actively teach and guide, ultimate trust remains in God's perfect plan for their lives. Embrace this challenge and blessing with confidence and hope.
